NOTICE. THE Undersigned have the honour to pay this very graceful compliment to Captain MILLER and all the OFFICERS of the Steamer " Bowen.

It appears that on the last voyage from Sydney to Hongkoug, a Passenger, TANG A-SING, Whampoa, Died, and Captain MILLER and his OFFICERS took what steps were in their power to preserve the body, and handed it over to the relatives for interment. Besides this, the Chief OFFICER also personally collected a subscription on board the steamer from all Passengers to the amount of £20, of which £11 was drawn from European and £9 native, and handed over to his family, which they will use for funeral expenses. Under the above circumstances how philanthropic a virtue they cherish and how benevolent well-doing they love! The undersigned are now simply expressing their cordial thanks by means of publishing in the newspaper the care and trouble they had taken with the deceased. DECEASED'S WIFE COMRADES and all Sailors on board the said steamer. Hongkong, August 9, 1880.

WE drew attention the other day to the blot on the fair fame of European enterprise and trade in the East which lies in the practice of a few black sheep among the merchants, who systematically abuse, for a consideration, the Transit Pass privilege in China, by taking out passes for goods owned by Chinese and thus inflicting great injury upon the native Customs revenue. We spoke strongly on the subject in our issue of the 17th instant, because the abuse has been stinking in the nostrils of all honest merchants in China for a long time past. We have been roundly abused with some virulence for the position we took up, and that by an authority, who, unexpectedly, disclaims our views on the matter, Shanghai Mercury says that it would bave supposed that the China represent commercial interests. aim has ever been in these columns to represent, to protect, to encourage the honest pursuits of British commerce, but they have of him. However this transformation scene was brought about, it is certainly indicative of great skill on the part of the stagemanagers. Let us explain. Under Section 11 of Ordinance 4 of 1863, the Gaol Superintendent has power to punish a prisoner convicted of felony "by moderate corporal punishment not exceeding twelve strokes of a rattan," for breach of gaol discipline, and other offences in prison; and the Superintendent has also power under Sect. 12, in conjunction with a Justice of the Peace. to sonal correction not exceeding thirty-9 p.m. - Meeting of Perseverance Lodge.

inflict upon refractory prisoners "persix strokes." Well, it was felt to be desirable to extend these powers, so as to enable the Superintendent of the Gaol to punish refractory prisoners who committed themselves on the eve of the expiration of their sentences; and short Ordinance was introduced, as long ago as the 29th April 1878, to effect that desirable end. This brief measure was transmitted to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, together with a despatch written by Mr Hennessy. The reply to that application was read at the last meeting of Council, and was reproduced in these columns: it refers to objections to the original powers of whipping, raised by the Home Office, which are based upon the English practice, and asks for further information. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach asks for a report by the Gaol Superintendent (Mr Tonnochy), "as to the result of his further experience of gaol management, for I observe from his evidence at page 85 of the Police Report that he was rison Saturday entertainments will be then of opinion that it was desirable given on Monday evening next, the 16th that the Superintendent should have the In the Recreation Room, North Barracks. power to administer a certain number of strokes, and I should be glad to be in- | We are informed by the agent of the P. & formed whether the results of another | O. It has been said that it is not unfrequently a sign of great intellect and enlarged mind when a man changes his views; and if such be the case, we have a fair illustration of this truth in the person of the present Gaol Superintendent. His views on prison discipline have, it is true, suffered a somewhat rapid change; but then that may probably be all the more creditable. and should may hap redound all the more to his soundness of judgment. As Sir Michael refers to page 85 of a certain published report, it may be allowed us to refer first to page 84 of that printed document, as it may there be seen that Mr Tonnochy gave his evidence reported on page 85 in full view of the circumsixty newspapers, dailies and weeklies, stances of the old and new ordinances from these countries, are now filed for | now dealt with. It is surely inconsistent to shape our Gaol regulations upon the Home lines, while we are agonizing to show that Domestic Servitude and a hundred other things cannot be satisfactorily dealt with upon the hard and fast lines of Home practice. As Lord Carnaryon has said, the peculiar position and circumstances of this Colony have "led to the establishment in Hongkong of a penal system different from that adopted in other parts of Her Majesty's dominions." To assert, therefore, that a certain course is wrong here merely because it is not followed in England, is a departure from the recognised principle upon which Hongkong has hitherto been governed. last, the 7th instant, as the German barque Tek Li, Captain Petersen, was making her way up the river to Canton, under tow of the steam-launch Fei Ma, and when within about 23 miles of Mah-chow, the voice of a man apparently in distress was heard from the water. A search was instituted and a Chinaman was found in the water apparently in a helpless condition and nearly drowned. He was taken on board the barque where he received every attention. On being interrogated he said he had been about two hours in the water, and as there was a strong current running seawards at the time, the poor fellow in his then exhausted condition would soon have been at Canton the Captain took the man before the Commissioner, to whom he made a statement to the effect that he belonged to a junk which left Hongkong early in the month for a small village between Kwan Point and the Begue Forts on below, and in the scuffle which ensued between the pirates and the crew, two men were wounded, one of them seriously, and one man knocked overboard, who was fortunato enough to fall in with the Tek Li. It has since been ascertained that two hakow boats, which were approaching at the time, contained parties of confederates and that the cargo was transhipped to them, after which the crew were released and the junk permitted to continue her voyage. The people on board the barque say, that about the time of the alleged attack, they distinctly heard several reports of small arms, evidently at some distance. It is feared there is very little hope of the miscreants being traced.

The American mail has not been signalled at the time we go to press. We shall probably have the American and French mails both in to-morrow, all of a heap. From a number of telegrams by the American mail reproduced by the Yokohama papers to hand yesterday, we pick these three which really give the only news of any import embodied in the batch :-

London, July 12.—A movement is affoat in the House of Commons to present an address to Premier Gladstone, assuring him of the willingness of a large number of the members to support him in continuing the session as long as he may deem necessary to carry out the Government programme. July 13. - The Manchester Guardian says :- The prohibition of the export of grain from Russia will be a serious matter for Germany, where the rye crops are especially poor. Under the circumstances seems likely that Germany this year will be, notwithstanding the grain duties, an grain.

Constantinople, July 13.—The English steamer Khalifas, of the Euphrates line, has been attacked by Arabs, who maintained a fusilade for one hour, but d'd not succeed in boarding her. The Quartermaster and one passenger were killed, and the Captain wounded. The Turkish authorities at Bagdad promise to investigate the outrage.

A CASE of some importance to shipmasters has just been heard before Chief Justice tember. French, in H. B. M. Supreme Court at Shanghai. The case is a special one from telegram of July 9th, in turf circles owing to H.B.M.'s Court at Swatow, on Summary convictions in the cases of the Queen (the to the same owner (the Duke of Westminscomplaint of M. Linklater) vs. (1) John | ter), the stud book having been badly kept. Thomas, master mariner, and (2) A. Hurry, master of the steamship Hungarian. The charge in the first case, which came before Devil, should be accepted. Tattersall's Club Mr Consul Gregory on the 18th May last, was a charge against Captain Thomas for unlawfully piloting the British steamer Hungarian from sea into the port of Swatow, he not being a licensed pilot for Swatow. That in the second, which was heard on the same day, was a charge against Captain Hurry, for unlawfully employing Captain Thomas to pilot the Hungarian, Capt. Thomas not being a licensed pilot for Swatow. Both defendants were convicted by by the Chinese. By his last letter, received the Court below, but judgment was post--poned pending a Reference to this Court. The case submitted by Mr Consul Gregory for the opinion of this Court is as follows:

"Mr Thomas was late Master of steamer Foothow, a regular trader at this | would-be omniscient agents of Reuter.

with the entrance of the barbour. He took service on board the Hungarian at Shanghai on the 6th instant, [6th May last], se Purser, at a nominal salary [1s. per month], and acted as Pilot in bringing that steamer into this port on the 12th instant. Piloting About 1 o'clock on Saturday morning by unlicensed persons is prohibited by the Chinese Pilotage Regulations (General Regulation VII) under sauction from Her Majesty's Legation (vide No. XIX. of the General Port Regulations for H. B.M.'s Consulates in China, of 1st March, 1877, also Sir R. Alcock's Circulars No. 7, of 24th April, 1867, and No. 11, of 3rd November, 1868) Pilotage, however, is not compulsory. A Ship-master, may, as I understand, do his best to find his way in and out by the unassisted efforts of himself and his crew, without breaking the Pilotage Regulations. In the present case, if Mr Thomas had been a regular and permanent member of the crew, I suppose that nothing could have been said. But his engagement as Purser, at a nominal pay, suggests that ithere was something fictitious, that the engagement was not permanent, or bond fide, but was a device to evade the Regulations. If such an engagement be held legally sufficient to sustain his piloting the vessel, it may well beyond the reach of help. On arriving seem that a door is open for evasion of the Regulations and frustration of their policy, which for obvious reasons, does not regard the Pilotage service as suitable to be conducted on the principles of free trade, but restrict it to a limited number of authorized persons, serving under established rules

On the occasion of his last visit he had some iced sherbet and water, and within an hour of so from the time or his drinking the concoction he was dead. His death was the result of poison. It is supposed that, owing to the carelesaness of the chemist, some strychnine must have got mixed with the drink. Many of our readers who remember the child will be sorry for his fate, and will sympathise with Sir Walter and Lady Medhurst in their trouble. Hakon Adels en (s.) At Newcastle, N.S.W. WHAT THE ENGLISH THINK OF | the English workman does more talking. THE AMERICANS. (From " England from a Back- Windon"

by J. M. Bailey.) We are all more or less bigoted until we travel. Our own institutions and customs grow to be considered the best institutions and the only true customs until we have opportunity to compare them with other customs and institutions. All that we hear—and this is to both prepare and inform you—is not exactly true. I have shown that all the English are not morosc, sullen, and exclusive: and I have tried to show as many as have come in contact with that the American people are not wholly boors or assassins,—the only two classes many English recognize in America. I have claimed that the average English woman is not so tastefully dressed as the average American woman.

I am told here that the average English woman is superior in dress to her American sister, in that she dresses plainly; while the American woman arrays berself in flashy colors, and sports a swell air.

Does she? The swell American woman dresses richly, as her husband or father well knows, but not flashily.

And, really, is a man in broadcloth and kids inferiorly dressed to the manin blue jean and dog-skin gloves? Blue jean and dog-skin are the plainer of the two suits. It is not the quality of the goods, but their style of making up and wearing them.

I am proud to think, that, while our American woman dresses in high-priced goods, she shows admirable taste in selecting and combining the colors; and | there is no class of woman, unless it is the English and Esquimaux, less open to the offence of tawdry apparel.

There is a plainness that is too decided to be tasteful. And perhaps, if the matter were sifted down very closely, it would be found that the women of the middle classes in America dress at less cost than the same class in England. The English woman does not think she is dressed up unless she has on a silk gown. Silk costs much less here than it does in America, to be sure; but this is offset to mentring this risk. by the fact of wages being much less; here than there.

It is the style of American journalism, the year. especially in the Far West, to exagcan be imagized. They believe of all mon people. In the estimation of those who have not seen him, a fullblooded American is a sort of perambulating arsenal, constantly shedding bullets, bowies, and torpedoes.

The predisposition of the untravelled English to believe that American ladies aggravated by an English playwright, who has written "An American Lady," which is rendered nightly to large and appreciative audiences at the Criterion Theatre in London. The American lady thus exhibited is hordenish, slangy, masculine, swaggering, bullying, and indescribably offensive.

I could readily see by the expressions of those in the audience near to me that they accepted the character as a very fair representation of an American lady.

An English woman on making a call dons her best, which is considered as a compliment to the person called upon. On receiving calls, she takes equal care not to don her best, for fear she may excel her caller, which would be a dis-

He thinks English food must be the cause :- "! It is nourishing, good, plenti'ul, but it is as thick as syrup. Salmon and potatoes, roast beef in enormous quantities, plain puddings like fortresses, and the whole washed down by half-and-half with inextinguishable thirst into the entrails. After the dinner described you must not think of walking fourteen yards without going into a bar. There you drink a brandy-and-soda standing, which relieves you a little, but not for long. The English slake their thirst with port or sherry containing a great deal of alcohol, and that is throwing oil on the fire. To excuse them it must be remembered that they eat but one meal a day, but that is a very copious one. In the morning people who have work to do take bread and butter and tea; very busy people rush into a bar and get the barmaid to give them a sand. wich and a glass of sherry, and then rush out again. Confirmed loungers take their stand at the bar, and look a long time at the barmaid without speaking a word, and this contemplation lasts for ten minutes the lounger eats half of his sandwich, contemplates again, cats another mouthful drinks, re-contemplates, and goes out without saying good-byo."

PATTERNS,-Some difficulty is experienced in obtaining a general understanding of what is a Pattern. It is a bond fide sample of goods which the sender has for sale, or of goods which he wishes to order. It is to consist of the smallest possible quantity compatible with shewing what the goods are, and must have no intrinsic value.

To provide means of remitting small sums of money to or from this Colony and between the Ports of China, the Postmasters and Agents are allowed (but not required) to purchase Hongkong Postage

Stamps from foreign residents. Between Hongkong and Yokohama, however, in either direction. Money-Orders must be used. The Stamps tendered for sale must not exceed $50 in value, must be perfectly clean, in good condition, and in strips of at least two, as no separate Stamps will be purchased. They must be presented personally or accompanied by a note. The Postmaster or Agent may postpone purchasing if his public funds in hand are not sufficient, and he will refuse to purchase mission, and of delaying delivery in case in any case which appears doubtful or suspicious. He is allowed to charge a other correspondence. No responsibility Commission of one per cent on all Stamps
